Your Resource for Better Health Care Knowledge

Inquisit[®], Amerinet's strategic education partner, is enhancing its Materials Management Learning Institute in 2012!

Our Value

Inquisit's Materials Management Learning Institute (MMLI), Essentials of Supply Chain Management, consists of seven modules that strengthen and support the knowledge base of supply chain professionals to better enable them to deal with the complexities of the health care industry and to make a significant positive impact on their organization's bottom line.

The newly updated, 90-minute modules are offered via iQast, Inquisit's proprietary webcasting technology, so participants can receive real-time instructional education on important supply chain issues facing health care providers, including:

- Purchasing Concepts and Controls/Contracting/Negotiations February 21, 2012
Speaker: Michael B. Neely, FAHRMM, CMRP, CPM
- Upgrading Your Inventory Management Capabilities March 13, 2012
Speaker: Vicki Smith-Daniels, Ph.D.
- Using Value Analysis and Metrics to Sustain Savings: Turning Small Change into Big Bucks April 17, 2012
Speaker: Laura Wood, MSN, Ph.D.
- Strategic Leadership June 19, 2012
Speaker: Patricia Klancer, MHA, CMRP, FCPHM
- Financial Management I (Capital Budgets) August 2, 2012

Participants who successfully complete all seven modules will receive 10.5 hours of continuing education. These hours may be applied toward ACHE Category II and the Institute for Supply Management (ISM) certification, which is also applicable for Certified Materials & Resource Professionals (CMRP) recertification.

The Materials Management Learning Institute's programs review information and methods for dealing with the constant changes and financial pressures that are common in supply chain management. The goal is to help participants streamline their processes, resulting in reduced costs and improved quality.

Inquisit supports the professional growth and development of health care executives, managers and staff from across the country by providing high quality, cost-effective educational seminars and workshops accessible in a variety of ways.
